We believe, rather than just being a strictly clinical event management corporation, in building greater unity among groups, building platforms so the voices of the young can be heard and finally, building trust. We have, in the past year, organised runs, debates, forums, concerts and a treasure hunt, all aimed at uniting people from different backgrounds.

We will seek clients with a mission to give back to the nation and contribute to nation building. True power lies in the ability to envision a future which benefits the collective - kiniEvents will continuously ensure the benefit of the collective.
